PREFACE.

THE work of compiling Volume 2, being the Record of Sailors and Marines accredited to the State of Maryland during the Civil War 1861-5, disclosed unexpectedly, a much larger number of Marylanders who served their Country in the U. S. Navy than the official publications heretofore made had taken cognizance of. As a matter of fact the other States of the Union had all the Sailors and Marines born in said States accredited to their respective States who served in the U. S. Navy during the Civil War, whether actually enlisted from their respective States or not, and the Navy Department concluded to furnish the Commission with transcripts of Records on the same basis, that is of all Officers, Sailors and Marines born in Maryland and who served in the U. S. Navy during the Civil War 1861-5, when it was found that instead of 3,925 names as originally estimated, the State of Maryland was actually entitled to a credit of 5,636.

A perusal of the Records of the gallant Officers and Sailors from Maryland presents a most creditable and honorable record of the individuals mentioned therein, and when taken collectively really a historical record of which Maryland as a maritime State could well feel proud.

The Commission as far as practicable, placed themselves in communication with the surviving Officers and Sailors of the Civil War, and with the Veteran Naval Association as well as Grand Army Posts in the State of Maryland, with a view of supplementing the records with historical facts, as well as to correct errors in the misspelling of names and omissions in records furnished by the U. S. Navy Department, and by these agencies have been able to return quite a number of records for correction to the Navy Department before compilation, and they realize that even after these patient and persevering efforts, errors and omissions will doubtless exist.

Quite a number of survivors, both Officers and men, called upon the Commission and examined the records during the long and tedious process of compilation and co-operated with us. They are entitled to our thanks and to the thanks of all gallant survivors and their families.

The history and record of the Colored Troops raised in Maryland is one of which the survivors can also point with just pride. The severe losses incurred were above the average of the regimental losses in the Army during the Civil War. The number of deaths from exposure and hardship incident to an active field campaign was most remarkable.

These regiments were well officered and thoroughly disciplined, and evinced on all occasions a desire to perform their duty as soldiers of a Republic of which they would henceforth be citizens. They had to contend with prejudice that time and their own good conduct could alone allay, they appeared to appreciate the ordeal through which they were passing, and not only their own Countrymen, but the civilized world stood and wondered as the Colored Union Volunteer passed by to battle.

The Maryland contingent of Colored troops certainly measured up to the expectation of the most sanguine of their friends, and the survivors today fully and gratefully appreciate the just recognition given them by their native State in this publication, as has been evidenced by expressions to this Commission.

Considerable difficulty and delay was experienced by the Commission in obtaining transcripts of records from the War Department, but prompt intervention, as occasion required, by the Senators and Members of Congress from Maryland resulted in the just recognition of the Rights of the State of Maryland in the premises.

The Commission have fully realized the impossibility of compiling a perfect record, more especially of the individual, and the certainty that they would unjustly be held responsible for errors and omissions by Company Commanders, Mustering Officers and Department Clerks. The Law requires the Commission to compile certain records as found and furnished, but the Commission have assiduously and persistently invited inspection of the work in hand as it progressed, and have thereby been able to supply, correct and supplement records in many cases, more especially, where the individual was on detached service, etc.

The large number of names involved and the scope of the work in hand far exceeded all expectations. The demand for the records by the Libraries and Universities, not only of our own State, but throughout the Republic, is in excess of the supply.

As a standard publication by the State of Maryland the work has already received hearty commendation by competent and impartial Judges both in and out of the State, and in closing their labors the Commission who have served without compensation, feel conscious of the fact that they have performed their duty to the best of their ability, and with the material at their command, and will feel fully repaid by a just approval of the work accomplished.

A BRIEF COMPENDIUM OF THE
HISTORY OF MARYLAND SAILORS AND MARINES,
CIVIL WAR, 1861-5.

THE History of the U. S. Navy during the Civil War demonstrated the wonderful genius of our people in energy and inventive skill in improvising and building war vessels. In courage, intelligence and vigilance in handling them and a bravery and dash by both officers and seamen that has never been excelled.

At the commencement of the Civil War in the early spring of 1861, the U. S. Government had at its disposal sixty-nine (69) vessels of war, of which twenty-seven (27) were laid up for repairs.

Of the forty-two (42) vessels in commission twenty-six (26) were absent on duty in foreign lands, long months elapsed before they could be rendered available, many of them were sailing vessels, old-fashioned frigates, beautiful to behold, but almost useless on the day when steam had become known as the propelling power of war vessels, and coal a "contraband of war."

The service had been rusty from long idleness, in both officers and vessels.

"Presto change," four years later the navy of the United States consisted of six hundred and seventy-one vessels. It exceeded that of any other naval power, not excepting England.

America revolutionized the natives of the world, when on the afternoon of the 9th day of March, 1862, at Hampton Roads, the Monitor and the Merrimac fought the first battle of the iron-clads.

The ingenuity of our people both North and South was something marvelous in the productions and improvements in Naval architecture, and the World stood and wondered.

Even the American gun-boats of light draught on our western rivers so eminently adapted for the work committed to them, were marvels in their fashion.

Necessity is indeed the mother of invention, and no one understood this better than the Yankee sailor.

The history of the Maryland sailors and marines in the Civil War for the preservation of the Federal Union 1861-5, is a part of the History of the American Navy during that period, for scarcely a vessel or a squadron in any of their engagements or movements, but what had a Maryland sailor on their shipping lists.

In all of the naval histories of the American Navy the sons of Maryland, bore a conspicuous part and in the War of 1812-5, the Baltimore privateers made a glorious record, and it was an easy matter to particularize and plainly exhibit the distinguished services rendered by the Maryland sailors, but in the Civil War, all were merged in the common cause and it is a difficult matter to do justice to the gallantry of the Maryland sailor, suffice it to say, that they proved themselves worthy of an heroic ancestry, from the beginning to the end of the struggle.

A draft of Baltimore sailors rendered efficient aid with Commodore A. H. Foote's Mississippi River Flotilla in 1861-2, and aided in opening to navigation the Tennessee and Cumberland Rivers, and the capture of Forts Henry and Donelson in February 1862; and again in March 1862 at Island No. 10, the Maryland contingent aided in driving home the entering wedge that caused the Mississippi to flow unvexed to the sea.

In the ill-fated engagement of the Cumberland and Congress with the Merrimac at Hampton Roads, March 8, 1862, the Maryland sailor perished at the guns.

In the splendid naval attack and capture of Port Royal, S. C., in November 1861, the Maryland sailor had a good representation throughout the victorious fleet.

In April 1862, the Maryland sailor, was found in the fleets of Admirals Porter and Farragut in their splendid achievements on the lower Mississippi, that resulted in the capture of New Orleans, and the final surrender of the last obstacles at Port Hudson and Vicksburg, when the Mississippi was opened again to commerce.

In the operations in Charleston Harbor and the capture of Fort Fisher, the Maryland sailors were in the van.

At the great naval battle and victory of Mobile Bay where Farragut immortalized himself and the American Navy, the Maryland sailor was found doing his duty nobly.

In the famous naval battle off the coast of France between the U. S. S. "Kearsarge" and the C. S. S. "Alabama," the Maryland sailor was found behind the guns.

The personnel of the Maryland officers in the U. S. Navy during the Civil War, who have helped make the history of the U. S. Navy glorious embraced such names as Rear-Admiral John Rodgers who in the early days of the War was ordered on special duty in the Mississippi Valley to superintend the building of iron-clads on the Western River, thence back to the Atlantic to lead his Squadron in its advance and battle upon the James River, Va., almost within sight of the Confederate Capitol, until sunken vessels in the channel and other obstructions to navigation precluded further movements, and who again in the naval duel at Warsaw Sound, Ga., June 17, 1863, whilst in command of the Monitor "Weihawken," compelled the surrender within fifteen minutes of the C. S. S. Atlanta.

Rear-Admiral Benjamin F. Sands was present in both attacks of the U. S. fleet on Fort Fisher, N. C., most of the time Senior officer, commanding blockade off Wilmington and also off coast of Texas.

Col. Arthur J. Pritchard, fell wounded at his post of duty on the U. S. naval fleet in their desperate battle incident to the capture of New Orleans in 1862.

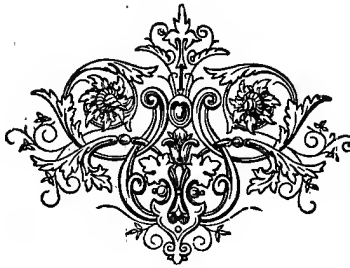

Rear-Admiral Augustus H. Kely aided in the organization of the Naval flotilla on the Mississippi River in 1861-2, and at Island No. 10 and Fort Pillow, did splendid service, commanded the expedition to White River, Arkansas, and on June 17, 1862, at the capture of Fort St. Charles whilst over one hundred of his crew perished in the engagement, he came out of the engagement minus an arm.

Rear-Admiral Hugh Y. Purviance took part in the first battle with the iron-clad "Merrimac," a battle that startled the world, again in command of U. S. S. "St. Lawrence" off Charleston, S. C., sank the C. S. Privateer "Petrel" and received a vote of thanks from the State of Maryland through the General Assembly.

Rear-Admiral John H. Russell complimented by the U. S. Navy Department and the thanks of the Legislature of Maryland, commanded the U. S. Gunboat "Kennebec" with Farragut's fleet in the attack upon Forts St. Philip and Jackson in 1862, and thence in the advance up the river as far as Vicksburg, Miss.

Rear-Admiral Winfield S. Schley, a name now known and honored throughout the civilized world, in 1862-3 commanded batteries in the siege and capture of Port Hudson, La., and throughout the Civil War on active duty passed through a school of experience that laid the foundation for his subsequent brilliant career.

So that it is self-evident that the Maryland contingent in the U. S. Navy during the Civil War 1861-5 was a most valuable factor.

FOURTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, U. S. COLORED TROOPS, MARYLAND VOLUNTEERS.

THE Fourth Regiment Infantry U. S. Colored Troops Maryland Volunteers was organized at Baltimore, Maryland, from July 15th, to September 1, 1863, to serve three years.

Upon the completion of the regimental organization, the command was sent by steamer from Baltimore to Yorktown, Virginia, in September 1863, where the command was thoroughly drilled and disciplined, and utilized in building fortifications.

In February 1864, the command made a raid in the direction of Richmond, and the inclement season of the year, and hardships incident to the marches through snow and sleet was a serious experience.

In March 1864, the regiment was assigned to duty at Point Lookout, Md., in guarding Confederate prisoners of war.

On the 10th day of April 1864, the regiment was transferred to Fortress Monroe, Va.

In May 1864, the regiment was assigned to duty with Gen. Butler's army of the James, and took part in the movement of that army leading up to the capture of City Point, Va., and the demonstration against Petersburg, Va., prior to the arrival of the army of the Potomac.

The regiment was subsequently ordered for duty at Bermuda Hundred, and assigned to the 18th army corps. With the 18th army corps the regiment took an active part in the engagements at Spring Hill and Jordan's Farm in June 1864, and suffered severe losses in killed and wounded.

The captures of cannon by the division of Colored troops of the 18th Army corps to which the 4th regiment was assigned, were numerous, including one battery of six guns by the regiment; in the capture of rifle pits and other fortifications during the Petersburg campaign, the 4th regiment was always with the advance lines of battle.

In August 1864, the regiment was a part of the army of the James, engaged in digging what was known as the Dutch Gap Canal, under a constant fire of the enemy's artillery.

In September 1864, the 4th regiment proceeded to Deep Bottom where it formed a part of the army of the James who were directed to operate against Fort Harrison, which it eventually captured by a gallant dash; this movement was regarded by Gen. Grant as of the greatest importance and all of the troops participating in it, received the highest commendation from the General-in-Chief of the Armies of the United States.

In December 1864, the 4th regiment was assigned to duty with the army of Gen. B. F. Butler in his ill-fated attack upon Fort Fisher, North Carolina, the rough ocean experience on the U. S. Transport Montauk in mid-winter off Cape Fear River, will ever be remembered by the survivors of the 4th regiment.

On the 29th day of December 1864, the 4th regiment reached Bermuda Hundred, en-route to join the expedition gotten up under the immediate direction of Gen. U. S. Grant, commanding the armies of the United States, and under the command of Gen. Alfred Terry with instructions to renew the attack on Fort Fisher without delay. This second or Terry expedition was eminently successful, and Fort Fisher was captured, and with it Wilmington, North Carolina. The 4th regiment continued in active field service during the winter of 1864 and in the following spring campaign that eventuated in the surrender of Gen. Joseph Johnson's Confederate Army at Greensborough, N. C., April 1865.

The 4th regiment performed garrison duty in the Southern States from the close of the war, until May 4, 1866, when they were mustered out of the service of the United States.

The casualties in the 4th regiment were as follows; killed in battle three commissioned officers and 102 enlisted men, total 105; died of wounds, disease, etc., one commissioned officer and 186 enlisted men, or a total of 187, making an aggregate death list of 292.

In addition to the numerous skirmishes in which the regiment was engaged, the Fourth Regiment Infantry U. S. Colored Troops Maryland Volunteers, took a distinguished part in the following battles, viz: Bermuda Hundred, Petersburg, Dutch Gap, Chapin's Farm, Fort Fisher, Sugar Loaf Hill.

SEVENTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, U. S. COLORED TROOPS, MARYLAND VOLUNTEERS.

THE Seventh Regiment Infantry, United States Colored Troops, Maryland Volunteers, composed of colored men from Maryland, was recruited under orders of the war department, and the history of the regiment dates from September 26, 1863, on which date companies A. B. and C., were mustered into the service of the United States at Birney Barracks, Baltimore, Maryland.

Col. William Birney of the 2nd U. S. C. troops was the superintendent of recruiting colored troops in the State of Maryland, and had general charge of the enlistments and organization of the 7th regiment.

By October 8, 1863, the first six companies, viz: A. B. C. D. E. and F., were uniformed but arms were not issued to any of them until October 18th; drilling in the meantime went on daily.

Details of detachments for recruiting service, were sent to Millstone Landing and Benedict on the western shore and Shelltown, Rehoboth, Newtown, Shad Landing and Snow Hill on the eastern shore of Maryland, whilst a large camp of instruction and rendezvous was established at Benedict, Maryland.

October 29th, no less than 130 recruits were obtained from the oyster fleet lying at the mouth of the Patuxent river, and comprised the very best material for either the army or navy; some of these recruits afterwards found their way into the U. S. navy and gave a good account of themselves. Benedict now became the regimental camp and by November 12, 1863, the remaining four companies viz: G. H. I. and K., had been fully organized, and the 7th regiment U. S. C. troops mustered into the service of the United States, Col. James Shaw, Jr., joined the regiment November 15, 1863.

The winter of 1863 was spent at camp Stanton, Benedict, Md., in drilling and preparing the regiment for active field duty. The location of the camp was an unhealthy one, and many of the 7th regiment perished from sickness during the winter season.

March 4, 1864, the regiment was transported by steamer to Portsmouth, Va., disembarked and proceeded thence to Gettys station on the U. S. military railroad. The experience of the men the first night of their bivouac in the cold, bleak and inclement season was long remembered; after moving from point to point to protect Suffolk and Portsmouth from an attack by the enemy, the regiment embarked March 7th on the steam transport "Daniel Webster" for the department of the south and after a rough voyage reached Hilton Head,

South Carolina, March 10th, where the regiment disembarked and marched out beyond the town and went into camp near old "Fort Beauregard."

The regiment again re-embarked on the S. S. "Delaware," March 14, 1864, and proceeded to Jacksonville, Florida, which latter point was reached on the afternoon of the 15th, where the regiment again disembarked, marched beyond the fortifications and went into camp; here the regiment in addition to its usual company, regimental and brigade drills was utilized in building additional fortifications, and in the performance of picket and scout duty.

On the evening of the 6th of May 1864, the enemy's cavalry attacked the outposts of the 7th regiment but were speedily repulsed. On the 25th day of May, the regiment with a detachment of mounted infantry and a battery of Artillery whilst out on a reconnoissance had quite a skirmish with the enemy at Cedar Creek, Florida. Another skirmish in which the regiment took a conspicuous part was at Cedar Creek several days later.

In the early part of June 1864, after an inspection of the 7th regiment by the inspector-general of the department of the south, Gen. Gordon stated, "that the 7th regiment was the best colored regiment in the service of the United States."

The month of June 1864, proved to be exceedingly hot in the camps at Jacksonville and considerable sickness prevailed in the regiment, more especially amongst the officers.

On the 27th day of June 1864, the regiment proceeded by steamship to Hilton Head, South Carolina, where they formed a part of an expedition under Gen. Foster to the North Edisto river, for the ensuing seventeen days the regiment was constantly engaged with a large column of troops marching and fighting, during which the casualties in the regiment were severe.

The regiment returned to Jacksonville on the 15th day of July 1864. On the 22d day of July 1864, the regiment was ordered out for another raid; embarking on the steamer "Mary Benton," the regiment proceeded up the St. John's river to Black Creek, where it disembarked, and was joined by other troops and pushing forward, cut the Florida and Gulf railroad at Trail Ridge.

The regiment returned to Jacksonville August 5th, and embarked the next day for Hilton Head, South Carolina, en-route for Fortress Monroe and the army of the Potomac. The regiment reached Fortress Monroe August 11th, and received orders to proceed immediately to Bermuda Hundred on the James river; here it disembarked and became a part of the colored brigade of the 3rd division, 10th army corps. The brigade consisted of the 7th and 9th U. S. colored troops, both Maryland regiments, the 8th regiment U. S. colored troops and 29th regiment infantry Connecticut colored troops.

The regiment immediately took an active part in all of the serious fighting in which the army of the Potomac was then engaged, and casualties were of almost daily occurrence.

The regiment felt very much encouraged upon the publication of the following congratulatory order, viz:

HEADQUARTERS 10TH ARMY CORPS, FUSSELLS MILLS, VA., AUG. 19, 1864.

General Orders:—The major-general commanding congratulates the 10th army corps upon its success. It has on each occasion, when ordered, broken the enemy's strong lines. It has captured during the short campaign four siege guns, protected by formidable works, six colors and many prisoners. It has proved itself worthy of its old Wagner and Fort Sumter renown. Much fatigue, patience and heroism, may still be demanded of it, but the major-general commanding is confident of the response. To the colored troops recently added to us and fighting with us, the major-general tenders his thanks for their uniform good conduct and soldierly bearing. They have set a good example to our veterans by the entire absence of straggling from their ranks on the march.

By order of MAJOR-GEN. D. B. BIRNEY,

E. W. SMITH,
Lieut. Colonel and Asst. Adjt. General.

The special correspondent of the New York Tribune said about the same time: "The loss in the four colored regiments is about three hundred. The 7th U. S. colored troops (Maryland) on the first day carried with fixed bayonets, a line of rifle pits, and carried it without a shot, but with a loss of thirty-five; it was one of the most stirring and gallant affairs I have ever known."

The regiment continued in active campaign work on the north bank of the James river, participating in the most severe fighting until the latter part of November 1864, during which the casualties were severe; in fact from the time that the regiment joined the army in Virginia in August until the latter part of November 1864, the losses in killed, wounded and missing footed up nearly 500.

On the 1st day of December 1864, the colored troops of the 9th, 10th and 18th army corps, were consolidated and formed into the 25th army corps, the 7th regiment having been assigned to the 1st brigade, 2nd division, 25th army corps.

The 7th regiment had its full share of the winter campaign work devolved upon that part of the army north of the James river, known as the army of the James. The winter was cold and disagreeable with frequent snow storms. As the month of March advanced the weather became milder and the roads better and better. On the 19th day of March the division of colored troops of which the 7th regiment formed a part was reviewed by Gen. Grant and the secretary of War, and on the 26th by President Lincoln, after which the regiment with the division prepared for an active field campaign, and immediately marched south, crossed the James river, and then the Appomattox river, continuing the march all night and part of the next day, until the Weldon railroad south of Petersburg had been reached; thence the command continued to a point near Hatcher's Run taking part in all of the preliminary movements leading up to the evacuation of Petersburg.

After the terrific cannonade all along the lines, from the extreme right in front of Richmond over forty miles away to our own immediate front, on the 1st and 2nd of April, the enemy's lines were broken by the charge of the 6th army corps on the 2nd, and the division of which the command formed a part charged also, only to find the enemy's works in their front evacuated, turning to the right the command marched along the line of the enemy's abandoned works towards the City of Petersburg, whilst the terrific artillery fire continued, and the long lines of glistening steel closed in around the doomed city.

The enemy contested every foot of ground as the command advanced. With the energy of despair; early on the morning of the following day the command pushed forward, and the 7th regiment was the first regiment that reached the centre of the City of Petersburg, where they were speedily joined by other troops who had entered the city from the opposite side. The command pushed forward in pursuit of the enemy and after a march of ten miles by night had reached Sunderlands, continued the pursuit of the enemy on the 5th, 6th and 7th until Berksville was reached, thence to Farmville on the 8th, after a march of twenty-six miles from last camp. On Sunday the 9th day of April 1865, the command made another forced march, starting before daylight, and after proceeding twenty-four miles, reached the vicinity of Appomattox Court House; the end had at last arrived, the armies of Grant had the last remnant of Gen. Lee's Confederate Army in its grasp, and its surrender followed.

After the surrender of Lee's Army the regiment with its command returned to Petersburg, Va., and went into camp, and thence to City Point where it embarked by steamship for Texas, May 24, 1865, after a long and tedious voyage, stopping en-route at Mobile Bay and the mouth of the Mississippi river, the regiment finally reached Indianola, Texas, and disembarked June 23, 1865.

The regiment continued to perform garrison duty in Texas until the 14th day of October 1866, when it again embarked at Indianola, Texas, en-route for their Maryland homes.

The stay of the regiment in Texas was attended with serious loss from the disease of cholera prevalent there at the time as an epidemic. After vexatious delays the regiment reached Fortress Monroe, November 2nd, and Baltimore on the 4th, disembarked and went into camp at Fort Federal Hill. The regiment was finally paid off and disbanded at Baltimore, Md., November 15, 1866.

The casualties of the regiment during its term of service were as follows: Killed and died of wounds, commissioned officers 1, enlisted men 84, total 85; died of disease, etc., commissioned officers 1, enlisted men 307, total 308; an aggregate death list of 393.

The engagements in which the regiment were engaged and authorized to inscribe on its colors were as follows: Cedar Creek, Florida, Baldwin, Kingland Road, Fussels Mills, White Point, Fort Gilmer, Va., Darbytown Road, Armstrong's Mills, Petersburg, Appomattox Court House, John's Island.

HISTORY OF THE NINTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, U. S. COLORED TROOPS, MARYLAND VOLUNTEERS.

THE Ninth Regiment Infantry, U. S. Colored Troops, Maryland Volunteers, composed of colored men from Maryland, was organized at Benedict, Maryland, between November 11, 1863, and November 30, 1863.

.The regiment remained at camp Stanton, Benedict, Maryland, during the winter of 1863-4, perfecting the regimental organization and engaged in drilling and disciplining the command.

On the 3rd day of March 1864, the 9th regiment embarked per steamship for Port Royal, South Carolina, at which place it disembarked on 7th of the same month. Remaining at that place a few weeks, it was ordered to Port Royal Island, where it remained about one month; it then returned to Hilton Head and soon after took part in the Ashepoo expedition, commanded by General Birney; after this it returned to Beaufort, on Port Royal Island, where it remained a number of weeks, all the time performing the common routine of camp duty. In the latter part of June following, the regiment embarked for the expedition at that time got up against the enemy on John's Island, South Carolina; July 7th and 9th, they skirmished with the enemy, and in a few days returned to Beaufort via Folly Island; August 4th following, the 9th regiment embarked for Bermuda Hundreds, Virginia, landing on the 8th of the same month, proceeded at once to the front; was engaged with the enemy in skirmishing on the 14th and 15th of August, and on the 16th took an active part in the battle of Fussel's Mills, Virginia, being the last regiment to yield up its position and fall back under a galling cross-fire of the enemy; the second day following it again skirmished with the enemy, and on the 18th of the same month marched to the Bermuda Front, and soon after from thence, on the 24th, to the trenches in front of Petersburg, Virginia, where for a month the severe duties of besiegers told heavily upon the physical strength of both officers and men. September 29, 1864, the regiment took part in the terrible and disastrous assault on Fort Gilmer, in front of Richmond, and soon after took up a position near Fort Harrison.

October 13th and 27th, 1864, following, they were engaged in skirmishing with the enemy, suffering but lightly in killed and wounded. April 3rd 1865, they took part in the triumphant entry into Richmond; from there the regiment marched back to Petersburg, and after a number of weeks in camp at that place and City Point, it embarked on the 7th day of June 1865, from City Point, Virginia, for Brazos Santiago, Texas, where it arrived July 1st, and soon thereafter marched to Brownsville, where it remained in camp until October 2nd, 1866, when it was ordered to New Orleans, where it lay in camp at Greenville, Louisiana, receiving orders to muster out November 10th, 1866, to go by steamer to Baltimore, Maryland.

This regiment had been exposed and suffered to an unusual degree from all the worst and most frightful diseases that flesh is heir to, such as congestive intermittent fever, measles, small-pox, scurvy and cholera.

The casualties in the 9th regiment, U. S. Colored Troops, Maryland Volunteers, were as follows; killed in action, 1 commissioned officer and 46 enlisted men; died of disease, wounds, etc., 2 commissioned officers and 266 enlisted men or a total death list of 315 men.

The 9th regiment in addition to numerous skirmishes bore an honorable part in the following engagements, John's Island, South Carolina; Deep Bottom, Virginia; Fussel's Mills, Virginia; Siege of Petersburg, Virginia; Darbytown Road, Virginia; October 13th and 27th, 1864; Capture of Richmond, Virginia, April 3, 1865.

NINETEENTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, U. S. COLORED TROOPS, MARYLAND VOLUNTEERS.

THE Nineteenth Regiment Infantry, United States Colored Troops, Maryland Volunteers, was organized by Brig. General Birney, U. S. V., at Benedict, Md., December 15, 1863.

It was composed largely of colored men from Southern Maryland and the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

The regiment remained in the camp of instruction at Benedict, Maryland until ordered to Baltimore City, March 1, 1864. It acquired great proficiency in discipline and drill, and performed provost duty at Baltimore City, which notwithstanding the prejudice against the colored troops, their bearing and military qualities, challenged, merited and obtained general approval and great credit.

March 22, 1864, a Battalion of the regiment was ordered to Harper's Ferry, Va., thence marched to Winchester, Va.; whilst en-route thereto the battalion was attacked by the enemy's cavalry near Berryville, who were repulsed with serious loss.

The battalion proceeded thence to Winchester, Va., and having accomplished the purpose of the expedition, returned to Harper's Ferry, pursued by the enemy's cavalry.

In the latter part of April 1864, the regiment was ordered to join the army of the Potomac then under the immediate supervision and control of General Grant. The regiment marched via Washington and Alexandria to Manassas, Va., which point they reached May 1, 1864, and on the 6th day of May 1864, received their first baptism of fire, in the battle of Wilderness. The regiment was assigned to the 9th army corps, Gen. A. E. Burnside in command.

On the 13th day of May 1864, whilst the regiment was assigned to duty guarding the trains of the army of the Potomac, it was attacked by Hampton's Legion of Confederate Cavalry which it handsomely repulsed.

The regiment remained with the 9th army corps throughout all of the vicissitudes, hardships, trials, tribulations and battles, incident to the campaign of Grant's Army that culminated in the Siege of Petersburg, Va.

On the 27th day of November 1864, the 19th regiment was transferred to and consolidated with 25th army corps.

The regiment took a very active part in the series of engagements, incident to the Siege of Petersburg and the capture of Richmond, Va. The regiment being amongst the first troops to enter the Confederate Capital.

The gallantry of the regiment at the battle on Cemetery Hill near Richmond, Va., was conspicuous and the losses very severe, one half of the number engaged were killed and wounded inside of thirty minutes; the regiment experienced a loss of twelve commissioned officers and three hundred and sixty enlisted men, killed and wounded.

On the 5th day of June 1865, the regiment embarked by steamship for Brazos, Texas, thence to Brownsville. The regiment remained in Texas until expiration of the term of enlistment, when it was duly mustered out of service January 15, 1867.

The casualties in the 19th regiment were as follows, viz: Killed and died of wounds three (3), commissioned officers, enlisted men forty-seven (47), total fifty (50); Died of disease, etc., commissioned officer one (1), enlisted men two hundred and forty-two (242), total two hundred and forty-three (243), or an aggregate death list two hundred and ninety-three (293).

The engagements in which this regiment were engaged and authorized to inscribe on on their colors were as follows: Wilderness, Spottsylvania, Tolopotomy, Cold Harbor, Old Church, Petersburg, Weldon Railroad, Cemetery Hill, Hatcher's Run, Bermuda Hundred and Richmond, Va.

THIRTIETH REGIMENT INFANTRY, U. S. COLORED TROOPS, MARYLAND VOLUNTEERS.

THE Thirtieth Regiment Infantry, United States Colored Troops, Maryland Volunteers, was recruited principally on the eastern shore, and southern counties of Maryland, the regiment was organized at camp Stanton, Maryland, from February 12th to March 18, 1864, to serve three years.

The 30th regiment was assigned to Ferreros Division of the 9th army corps, with which it marched and fought with great gallantry and suffered severe losses. It participated in the Wilderness campaign under Gen. Grant in his advance to the James river in the spring and summer of 1864.

The 30th regiment during the Siege of Petersburg, Va., was very active in building forts and rifle pits, and at the mine explosion July 30, 1864, the 30th regiment took a distinguished part.

The 30th regiment also formed a part of the Butler's expedition against Fort Fisher, N. C., December, 25, 1864, and also took part in the second expedition under Gen. Terry that resulted in its capture after a brief siege, January 13-15, 1865.

After the capture of Fort Fisher and Wilmington the command was with the portion of the army that co-operated with Gen. Sherman's Army in North Carolina, resulting in the capture of the Confederate Army of Gen. Joseph Johnson, April 7-13, 1865; after the surrender of the Confederate Armies, the 30th regiment continued on garrison duty until December 10, 1865, when it was duly mustered out of the service of the United States.

The casualties in the 30th regiment infantry, U. S. colored troops, Maryland Volunteers, were as follows: Killed, commissioned officers three, enlisted men forty-three, total forty-six; died of disease, wounds, etc., commissioned officers two, enlisted men one hundred and seventy-seven, total one hundred and seventy-nine, or an aggregate death list of two hundred and twenty-five.

In addition to the numerous skirmishes in which the 30th regiment infantry, U. S. colored troops, Maryland Volunteers, were engaged were the following battles, viz: Petersburg, Fort Fisher, Sugar Loaf Hill, Cox Bridge.

THIRTY-NINTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, U. S. COLORED TROOPS, MARYLAND VOLUNTEERS.

THE Thirty-ninth Regiment Infantry, United States Colored Troops, Maryland Volunteers, was organized at Baltimore, Maryland, from March 22 to 31, 1864, to serve three years, it was composed of colored men from all parts of Maryland, but principally from Baltimore City.

The 39th regiment was assigned to duty with Ferrero's Division of the 9th army corps, and also performed duty with the 25th and 18th army corps.

The 39th regiment whilst on duty with the 9th army corps, participated in the Wilderness campaign and the battles in Virginia under Grant on the march to the James river.

Whilst the casualties in the 39th regiment, do not appear to be as serious as in other colored regiments of Maryland Volunteers, nevertheless, the regiment experienced serious hardships incident to active campaigning with the armies of the James and Potomac; its losses in the battles in front of Petersburg and at Bermuda Hundred were severe.

After service with the army of the Potomac it formed a part of the first or Butler expedition, as well as the second expedition under Gen. Terry, in the capture of Fort Fisher, North Carolina.

The regiment took a conspicuous part in the battle of The Crater, Va., and mine explosion, July 30, 1864, and their action in this engagement in saving their regimental colors received the commendation of the war department, and the color bearer Decatur Dorsey received a gold medal.

After the capture of Fort Fisher, the 39th regiment remained in North Carolina with Paine's Division of the 18th army corps, and marched with the troops that re-inforced Gen. Sherman prior to the capture of Gen. Johnson's Confederate Army.

After the surrender of the Confederate Army of Gen. Joseph Johnson, at Greensborough, North Carolina, April 1865, the 39th regiment performed garrison duty in the Southern States until it was mustered out of the military service of the United States, December 4, 1865.

The casualties in the 39th regiment of infantry were as follows: Killed in battle thirty enlisted men; died of wounds, disease, etc., commissioned officers three, enlisted men two hundred and thirty-nine, or a total death list of two hundred and seventy-two.

In addition to the skirmishes, engagements, etc., in which the 29th regiment infantry, U. S. colored troops, Maryland Volunteers were engaged, the following is the official battle list; viz: Petersburg, Federal point, Bermuda Hundred, Hatcher's Run, Fort Fisher, Sugar Loaf, Cox Landing, N. C., Wilderness, Spottsylvania, Weldon Railroad.
